

Mono County Strategic Planning Process

Background

Strategic planning is a process which focuses an organization on long-term issues, establishes clear purpose for all staff and produces a system of results oriented measurement that reinforces how best to use scarce resources for maximum return. In local governments, as resources have diminished over the last 15 years and more dramatically in the last 6, Strategic Planning has given the public and policy makers the ability to focus not merely on the next year but the next five, ten and twenty years, build an effective understanding of services and focused investment on service improvement.

Effective strategic planning goes beyond identifying and completing tasks but changes how we do business at the County and provides new methods to engage our employees in building a Higher Performing Organization. It builds context for all operations.

Local governments across California, including Mono County, have seen a growing imbalance of resources and responsibilities. As state and federal governments have shifted responsibility for service delivery and reduced overall resources, counties have seen growing financial pressures. This shift, coupled with reductions in local revenues (such as property taxes, local sales and tourism taxes), has made the ability of the County to plan for the long term difficult. As counties deliver or provide 75% of all services that constituents receive, the budgeting process has become a triage from year to year, being dependent on the next economic bubble.

It is customary for private and other public agencies to utilize the strategic planning process. The lack of resources, the lack of clarity of purpose and the increasing expectation of the public for services require us to follow suit.

Mono County faces a series of long-term liabilities and reduced resources to address them. In addition, the Board has identified a number of community issues which also need focus. The County long term liabilities and issues were touched upon during the 2013-2014 FY Budget Hearings. They are detailed in Attachment A – Table of Liabilities from Budget 2013-2014 hearings. The Board through five public sessions created a series of projects (Attachment B) which reflected short, medium and long term issues the County must also address.

A process to coalesce all of these elements and issues together into one cohesive plan is before the Board today. The development, refinement and adoption of a Strategic Plan will provide an evolving road map for the next five, ten and 20 years. It must be a living document built with the employees, public and the Board which creates a direction to guide decisions and focus resources on the most important needs. It will never be complete as issues and circumstances change but it must be absolute in its target of the long term challenges.

Strategic planning supports broader education and understanding by the public of what counties do and why, helps employees improve the services they provide and allows policy makers to have measurable results to guide future policy decisions. It will not be quick, easy or simple and requires discipline and commitment to be successful. When the County has developed and launched a Strategic Plan, County liabilities and the projects identified should have a place within the plan and should be prioritized. Future issues that arise will be viewed thru a lens for guiding where scarce resources go. As there are limited resources, there will be some things which are not funded.

Good strategic planning takes time, commitment and involvement from all parts of the organization. As an organization moves through the process, the end result will focus what we are doing and why.

A strategic plan is not a one-time project, but a system an organization adopts and commits to, wherein it constantly reviews, measures and improves services and prioritizes where it commits resources.

There are key components to a strategic plan:

- Vision – Where are we going and what will we be when we get there?
- Mission – what is our purpose, our reason for existing?
- Goals – What are we going to achieve and how?
- Values – What motivates our service? What Principles do we live by?
- Results – How will we measure success?

For Mono County which has been impacted by the feast and famine of outside economic forces, inconsistent weather patterns and a county where over 94% of the land is controlled by federal and state agencies, some guiding questions include:

1. Where are we going?
2. Who do we want to be?
3. How will we provide the best services that matter most to our residents and visitors?
4. How are we accountable for service delivery?
5. How will we know success?

The following proposal reflects the first needed step to the process. It includes a process timeline, constituencies, and methods for engaging people in this process. It will take time and be an exercise in engaging and listening to constituents, creating options, weighing choices and choosing a path. Once a full Strategic Plan is adopted, we can use it to guide our budgets, focus and measure service improvement and invest in Mono County. The strategic planning process will help us to create our future as Mono County, the future we all desire.
